DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

3. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

4. Claims 1-24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Annas (6,152,551) in view of Hempel (5,887,388), and further in view of Official Notice. Annas discloses a housing assembly including substantially all of the claimed limitation. The housing assembly includes, among other things a containment area with an opening with a multi-layer cover panel with a one-way mirror coating (see at least col. 4, lines 59-67, and col. 3, lines 47-50). Annas recites the use of the cabinet for TV and the like, but does not specifically recite a fireplace, the few claimed fireplace components, or that the firebox is integral with the outer shell.

a. Hempel teaches a cabinet that may be used interchangeably for housing a fireplace or TV. It should also be noted that a new use for an old device is not patentable, because it is within the general skill of one of ordinary skill in the art to select a known structure on the basis of its suitability for the intended use. Further, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to use the cabinet of Annas as taught by Hempel, as desired.

b. Official Notice is given that the claimed fireplace components are notoriously old and well known in the art. Components such as a firebox, direct venting, and plural openings (i.e. a front opening and a flue vent) are so notoriously old and well known in the art that it is a rarity, if at all, for these elements to be absent. Accordingly, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to incorporate the claimed fireplace components into the invention disclosed by Hempel in view of Annas, so as to provide for the regular function of today's standard fireplaces.

c. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have incorporated integral components in the invention disclosed by Hempel in view of Annas, since it has been held that where constituent parts are combined so as to constitute a unitary whole, the unitary whole is deemed integral. In re Larson, 144 USPQ 347.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicants' arguments with regard to the rejected claims, filed December 6, 2004, have been considered, but are not deemed fully persuasive and are moot in view of the new grounds for rejection.

d. In response to applicant's arguments against the references individually, one cannot show nonobviousness by attacking references individually where the rejections are based on combinations of references. See In re Keller, 642 F.2d 413, 208 USPQ 871 (CCPA 1981); In re Merck & Co., 800 F.2d 1091, 231 USPQ 375 (Fed. Cir. 1986).

e. In response to applicant's argument that the examiner's conclusion of obviousness is based upon improper hindsight reasoning, it must be recognized that any judgment on obviousness is in a sense necessarily a reconstruction based upon hindsight reasoning. But so long as it takes into account only knowledge which was within the level of ordinary skill at the time the claimed invention was made, and does not include knowledge gleaned only from the applicant's disclosure, such a reconstruction is proper. See In re McLaughlin, 443 F.2d 1392, 170 USPQ 209 (CCPA 1971).

f. Applicants are reminded that the test for obviousness is not whether the features of a secondary reference may be bodily incorporated into the structure of the primary reference; nor is it that the claimed invention must be expressly suggested in any one or all of the references. Rather, the test is what the combined teachings of the references would have suggested to those of ordinary skill in the art. See In re Keller, 642 F.2d 413, 208 USPQ 871 (CCPA 1981).

g. It seems abundantly apparent that the invention disclosed and claimed by applicant lies in combining a cabinet having a oneway mirror to enclose a fireplace. While the combination may be a new one, the above rejection and discussion should make it clear that the combination is in no way unobvious.

Conclusion

6. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within

Art Unit: 3749

TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
